Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

In one evening we listened attentively over the radio to both candidates for the presidency. Mr. Roosevelt spoke first and he made what is known as a fighting talk. We will always remember him for his beautiful English diction, his smooth delivery, his delicate yet incisive inflection and emphasis. We confess we have never heard an American with the command of voice and language to compare with that of Franklin Roosevelt. We think Winston Churchill, England's prime minister has much the same magic, and for us at least, far greater depth of insight in the human heart. Churchill's recent utterances has approached, as many commentators have observed, those of Shakespeare in his great moments. We are a little proud to think that Winston Churchill's mother was an American.

Of course the two men confront very different conditions. Churchill speaks from the heart concerning the fate of a great people in a moment when its continued existence is at stake. Roosevelt, commander of apt phrases, speaks merely to please enough voters to win an election, for a third term. Only the New Deal, known also as the Raw Deal, and among large groups of tax payers, as the Crooked Deal, is at stake.

We think of the New Deal as a crooked deal whenever we think of the Social Security Act. Under that act both workers and their employers contribute to a fund, which the New Deal takes over as soon as received and spends for whatever government expense it sees fit. The money that Congress failed to guard in the wording of the act, the President, or his officials, appropriate for other uses, and meet the insurance claims out of the everyday receipts of the government as they arise. If and insurance official did this with his company's reserve funds it would be called embezzlement and he would be prosecuted, probably by the New Deal's lawyers, and punished.

We noted that President Roosevelt, as usual, contented himself with half truths during his first "political" address of his third campaign. We listened attentively to what he said regarding Social Security because we regard the New Deal's disposition of these insurance funds as thoroughly dishonest, since the government is using money that by every right established in civil law belongs to the policy holders. He failed to answer Wendell Willkie's accusation. He pointed out that policy holders were getting their insurance. That's true. They are, today. But how about next year, or anytime when the tax burden or the public debt burden grows so great the people can no longer bear it. The old people of the country, then, bringing their policies to be cashed at the public treasury, would find a vast safe full of I. O. U. notes placed there by the New Deal. In other words the New Deal is gambling with the people's insurance money, and in private life this is a crime. Mr. Roosevelt failed to answer the real accusation of Willkie, and we suspect that he has no answer.

Later on in the evening, listening to Willkie, we as many others are, were impressed with the sincerity that rings through his hoarse voice. He is a crusader. He believes that this country in event of another third term for Mr. Roosevelt, is, not on its way to a totalitarian government, but will have arived there, when Mr. Roosevelt receives another "mandate" to continue his rule. Willkie points out that Mr. Roosevelt is a believer in mandates. When he tried to pack the Supreme Court in 1936, the President believed e was acting under a mandate of the people, even though his action had no authority in the Constitution. But, Wendell Willkie maintained, the President had already dared to mark his legislation to Congress wuth a "must." He had already reduced that body to a rubber stamp status. He followed that accession of power with a vicious attack on "the nine old men," palladium of American liberty. And when the first vacancy did occur (Willkie refrained fom mentioning this) the President appointed an ex-Ku Kluxer to a seat on the country's supeme tribunal. This appointment shamed

Red Cross Roll Call To Start Nov.11

Meeting Will Be Held Tonight To Discuss Plans For Drive

The directors and officers of the Nevada City Chapter of the Red Cross will meet tonight in the office of Thomas McCraney to discuss plans for the annual roll call, which opens November 11th. Mrs. Katherine Edwards of Red Cross headquarters will be present to help in the roll call plans.

McCraney, president of the local chapter, will preside over over the meeting. The directors are Benjamin Hall, Mrs. George Calanan, Mrs. A. H. Tickell, R. R. Goyne, H. E. Kjorlie, Garfield Robson, Mrs. George Gildersleeve, John W. O'Neill and George L. Jones. Alice Moore is the publicity chairman.

Drive Starts On Armistice

The roll call drive will be conducted from Armistice Day until November 21st.

Locally the Red Cross now offers a course in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick by Isabel Hefelfinger at the night school. Registration must be made with Mr. or Mrs. Kjorlie. Many trained nurses will be called from their homes within the next year to serve at the hospitals of the army and navy during the period of military training. If the women at home are prepared to give the care to their families that may be necessary, this course will be of great help.

Many Nevada City active Red Cross workers attended the recent district meeting of the Red Cross in Sacramento. Plans were made to expand all departments of the organization to meet the requirements of national defense program.

Nevada City chapter has been called upon for an increased membership. Mrs. Arnold Jackson, who has charge of that department, would like volunteer workers to contact her.

Personnel To Expand

Heretofore, practically the same citizens have been called upon to solicit memberships each year and it is the wish of the officials to expand the personnel in keeping with the general plan of all departments. Mrs. Jackson would like a male assistant. There are many things that require male support and a volunteer would be welcomed.

The materials for the production room are gradually arriving. Woolen goods for women's dresses are in the oom and can be apportioned to helpers Tuesday.

James T. Nicholson of Boston at the Sacramento district meeting presented an interesting inspirational account of his visit to Poland after the enemy invasion. His talk, gave assurance that every article sent over was delivered to the needy Polish people. At present nothing is being sent to any of the territory occupied by German invaders, so the excuses of those who decline to help "because Germany will get it" is an EXCUSE ONLY.

There are many departments of service in the Red Cross aside from from production for refugees.

Local hospitals are supplied with many comforts. Nursing activities, first aid, life saving, study of Braille as help to the blind are other Red Cross activities. Highway safety stations in this section are under the management of Leland Smith.

CLIFFORD BONIVERT JOINS ASSOCIATION

Forty four were present at the Peace Officers Association banquet held in the new banquet room at the Shamrock Cafe Friday night.

The officers heard L. S. Stair, chief gunner mate for the United States Navy, talk and show pictures of the navy in action. The banquet and meeting were presided over by President A. H. Willard.

Clifford Bonivert, local police officer, attended his first meeting as a member of the organization. The association now boasts a membership of 62.

Leong Grocery Store, Harris Drug Store, Azelia Beauty Shop, Save More, Cliff DeBerry, Jensen and Thomas, Food Palace, Purity Store, William Home, News Novelty Shop, Dollar Store, Dickerman Drug Store, Alpha Stores, Bolton's, Safeway, Bosworth's and Kopp's Bakery. COUNTY GROUP URGE WORK ON AUBURN ROUTE

Secretary H. F. Sofge, of the local chamber of commerce collaborated with members of the Grass Valley Chamber of Commerce in urging the impoving of the Nevada City-Auburn Highway at a meeting before the state highway commission in Sacramento Friday.

Assistant District Attorney John LaRue acted as spokesman for the group. LaRue praised the work already done on three miles of the highway below Grass Valley but stated additional work on the route is needed.

Sofge brought to the attention of the commissioners the fact 73 per cent of the automobile accidents in Nevada County occur on the four mile stretch between Nevada City and Grass Valley.

The local chamber secretary then thanked the commission for the work accomplished on the Downieville Highway. He reiterated to the commissioners the need for eliminating the dangerous bottleneck in Bear Valley on the Tahoe-Ukiah Highway.

FRENCH CORRAL MAN PAINFULLY BURNED

J. H. DeSmidt of French Corral was treated at the Nevada City Sanitarium for severe burns of the right hand and arm, suffered when a can of gasoline he was carrying ignited.

DeSmidt was engaged in charring fence posts when the gasoline became ignited from the nearby fire.

NORTH SAN JUAN RESIDENT SUCCUMBS

Funeral services are pending for William E. Brisbin, 64, resident of North San Juan for nine years, who died at the Nevada County Hospital here following an illness of several weeks.

The body is at the Holmes Funeral Home in Grass Valley. The deceased was a native of New York.

PRICE OF GOLD UNDER LAW CAN NOT BE REDUCED

ANGELS CAMP, October 28.—State Senator Jesse Mayo of Angels Camp today reassured gold miners that Willkie's election would not mean a reduction in the $35 an ounce price for the metal and nailed what he declared was a whispering campaign by New Dealers in the Mother Lode and other mining areas.

After a telegraphic interchange with Congressman Harry L. Englebright of the Second District, author of the Gold Act, Mayo declared that the measure authorized an increase in the price of gold up to $41.34 an ounce, but makes NO provision for reducing it.

"Executive order has fixed the price at $35," Mayo said. "Mr. Willkie could not reduce the price if he wanted to, but authority remains in the Act permitting an incease to the maximum of $41.34. The mining industry need have no fear for its welfare if Mr. Willkie is elected."

POSTMASTERS COMMISSION

CAMPTONVILLE, Oct. 28.—Miss Katherine L. Pauly has received her appointment and commission from Washington as postmaster of this place, and has taken oath of office. She has been filling the office as acting postmaster, to which position she was appointed following the death of Postmaster Lydia O. Groves.

RAIN CANCELS ROSEVILLE GAME

The game between the Nevada City Yellowjackets and Roseville Tigers, scheduled for last Saturday, was postponed because of the rain. Coach Edward Frantz said the contest may be played later in the season.

The local football squad's "Big Game" will be on Armistice Day. It will be against the Grass Valley Miners at Hennessy Field in Grass Valley.

A victory will be a triumphant climax to a successful season for the Yellowjackets.

RAINS MARK END OF FIRE DANGER SEASON

Tahoe Forest officials welcomed the present rains as the probable ending of the period of high fire hazard at least, according to E. L. Baxter, in charge of fire control. Guards and lookouts are being placed on improvement work, principally in installing cross drains on the mountain roads and trails in order to prevent, so far as possible, damage from winter rains and snows. Baxter states that though the fire danger is greatly reduced, burning permits are required by state law until December 1. On the Tahoe, the no smoking campfire permit, and shovel and axe regulations have been rescinded until further notice.

WINDOW DISPLAY ATTRACTS ATTENTION

The artistry of the members of the Nevada City Cub Scout Pack No. 2 is displayed in the Nugget window. The display, showing animals, poultry and even a Santa Claus made from various vegetables, is attracting widespread attention.

The objects were made for the pack's Hallowe'en party, which was held Friday night.

ECHO RANCH OWNER DIES IN BAY CITY

Alexander William Brohman, who owned the Echo Ranch on the Murchie Mine Road, died in San Francisco last week. Brohman was vice president in charge of operations of the Market Street Roilroad.

With his daughter, Mrs. Frank A. Scott, Brohman was often a week end visitor at his summer home here. He also leaves a sister, Mrs. Anne Fisher and a brother, Richard Brohman.

Merchants Will Meet Tonight

Plans Will Be Considered For Further Stimulating Trade Here

With the experience of one Saturday night and payday night 9 p. m. closing behind them, Nevada City merchants will meet in Schreiber's Cafe at 7 o'clock tonight to consider further plans for the improving of business conditions and stimulating trade here.

Most of the businessmen remaining open until 9 p. m. Friday and Saturday nights were well pleased with the response despite the fact rain during the two days cut down the patronage considerably.

For the two days many bargains were offered to Nevada City shoppers. It is planned to continue these bargain days on Saturday and paydays.

Bert Foreman will preside over the meeting tonight. A larger attendance than at the Monday night gatherings during the past two weeks is expected.

Plans for Consideration

Methods to improve business to be discussed and considered at tonight's meeting will include the awarding of many valuable prizes during the Christmas shopping season; entertainment programs to attract the people into the business district and Dollar Day Sales.

Merchants having any ideas they believe may be of benefit are invited to outline them at tonight's meeting.

In explaining the 9 o'clock closing hour plan, Secretary H. F. Sofge of the local chamber of commerce, states:

"The merchants are endeavoring to make buying easy in Nevada City and hope this change will be a solution of the problem. They do not expect to get rich by any means, but if they can, in this way, accommodate the buyer who is unable to reach town in time to beat the 6 o'clock closing hour on these days, they feel they have accomplished something for the good of the entire community."

WIDESPREAD BELIEF NEW DEAL RESPONSIBLE FOR GOLD INCREASE CONTRADICTED BY MINE OFFICIAL

P. R. Bradley, Jr., prominent mining official, and former resident of this community, contradicts the widespread belief the New Deal was responsible for the increase in the price of gold.

"A newspaper recently printed (as a paid advertisement) a political statement refering to the increase in recent years, of the price of gold, and attributed this increase to action of the New Deal.

"It is peculiarly, a matter of some what widespread belief that the New Deal made this change; but, as with many other good things which have come to the public in the last seven or eight years, the New Deal had nothing to do with initiating the change; in this case, for a long while it took direct harmful action.

"The facts are that the price of gold rose on the free world market. By the time a fixed price was set by the U. S. government for its own purchases of gold, the world price had already reached its present one, and subsequently passed it. Fluctuation in gold price, and a foreign demand for gold which resulted in considerable flow out of this country for about two years, followed the action of Great Britain in leaving the gold standard, and was a natural result of bad and world-wide economic conditions. It would be expected that the American producers of gold, and hence the American public, would benefit greatly by sales on the improved market.

"The first action of the New Deal was to stop such sale. By legislative action and presidential proclamation the exportation of gold from this country was halted; sale of gold in foreign markets became illegal; to engage in free trading in gold became a crime.

"Not only was the American gold producer denied the right of access to the free world market; he was compelled by the New Deal to sell his product to a buyer, and to that buyer alone, who would pay him nothing beyond the old price of $20.67 per ounce, as against the free price which at times reached over $30 per ounce. Further, he was compelled to sell; it was made illegal for him to store his products against the rise in anticipation of trade in gold being restored.

"Of course the U. S. government finally had to take recognition of new prices; and after several months had passed it began buying both foreign and domestic gold at a price about equivalent to that in London. Its final action was the Gold Act of 1934, taken when world economic conditions, and the world price of gold, showed stabilization. This act fixes the price to be paid by the U. S. government for gold, at its present one of $35 per ounce. This was merely a matter of getting in line with the world price.

"All this information, together with tabular materials, dates, etc., may be found in the Congressional Record."

Democrats Rebel

Most encouraging to the Willkie forces was the formation last week of the "California Democrats Opposed to a Third Term."

The new organization, made up of Bourbons, who are liberals, middle-of-the-roaders and conservatives, gives every indication of being the greatest vote-getting organization to appear on the horizon of this year's presidential campaign.

Men and women like Major Rex Hardy, prominent member of the California bar and a life long Democrat; Monroe Butler, former chairman of the Los Angeles County Democratic General Committee; Mrs. Esther Lea, a leader in women's Democratic activities; Assemblyman Seth Millington, Northern California Democratic leader, former commander of the American Legion and president of the Native Sons; O. J. Temple, ex-president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen; William Peeler, an executive in the Retirement Life Payments Association; P. M. Abbott, an Al Smith supporter, Robert Kohler prominent Nevada County rancher and former Democratic Central Committeeman and H. Harrison Ham friend of Vice-President Garner, are all sound substantial citizens.

They have united in opposition to Roosevelt's aspirations for a third term. That is their single purpose. They will enter into no other phase of the November election.

By their very sincerity, their conscientious determination to stop the march toward a one-man government, they set a new high for political honesty. It gives us a new faith in our Democracy.

These men and women, regardless of the success of Willkie, are now "marked" politically.

Every obstacle will be thrown in their way by the so-called Olson-Ickes Democrats. Little will be their glory should Willkie be victorious since they will be blamed for the Roosevelt defeat. That is the picture. That is politics.

However, we venture the prediction that the "California Democrats Opposed To A Third Term," having shown the courage of their convictions, will attract thousands of other Democrats throughout the state to their banner. They bring leadership to those in our state who place the welfare of the nation before the questionable success of their party.

That is not "good politics" but, in the final anaylsis it IS America!

THE LADY IN QUES TION OPENS AT BROADWAY THEATRE HERE THURS.

The Lady in Question, which plays at the Broadway Theatre here Wednesday and Thursday, is the tale of a shopkeeper in peacetime France, Paris, who serves on a jury in the trial of a young woman accused of murder and is moved by her plight to take her into his employment and his home following her acquittal.

How coincidence and misunderstanding combine to complicate his existence and bring his family to the verge of dissolution before his wife's perception of his motives brings about a happy ending is told with deliberation and artistry. The force of Brian Aherne's performance in this picture is said by critics to be well worth the price of admission alone. Teamed with Aherne in the leading roles are Rita Hayworth, Irene Rich, Glenn Ford and Curt Bois.

THE LIFE OF WENDELL WILLKIE - - - - - - - From the Willkie Volunteers in Northern California

Wendell Willkie, as an officer in the 325th Field Artillery which formed part of the 84th Division, returned from France early in 1919. He took his war bride to Akron, O., where he went to work in the legal department of the Firestone Rubber Co.

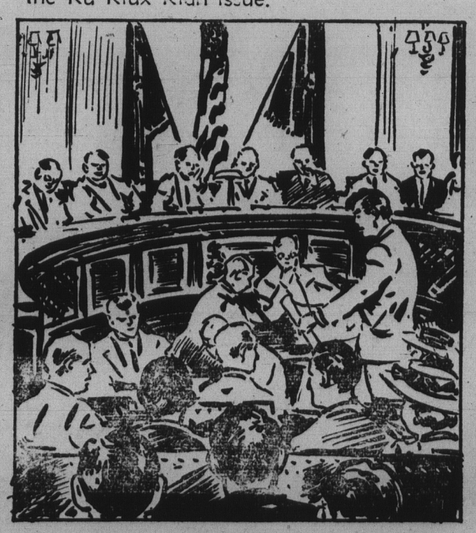
He lived there happily with his bride who on Dec. 7, 1919, bore him a son whom they named Philip. He proved to be an only child. Wendell then entered law firm of Mather & Nesbitt. One client was the Northern Ohio Power & Light Co.

At this point in his career Wendell began to take an active interest in local and national politics. He fought the nomination of William Gibbs McAdoo at the 1924 Democratic convention chiefly on the basis of the Ku Klux Klan issue.

So skillfully did Wendell handle affairs of Northern Ohio Power & Light Co., Bernard Cobb, utility magnate who had just formed a company with operating units in 11 States, summoned him to New York in 1929 as attorney for the Commonwealth & Southern.

Wendell Willkie proved himself so worthy of the confidence placed in him by the president of Commonwealth & Southern, Bernard C. Cobb, that the company named him president when Mr. Cobb retired in 1933.

He hired 500 salesmen to sell electrical devices throughout the territory covered by the company and whacked down power rates thereby doubling power sales and turning an $[illegible],000 deficit into a $5,150,000 profit.



When David Lilienthal and T.V.A. began to throttle every utility company in Tennessee Valley, Wendell Willkie fought him every step with proposals intended to utilize rather than destroy the companies. In 1938 came T.V.A. Congressional quiz.

Wendell Willkie became the star witness in the T.V.A. inquiry. Resourceful, widely informed, thoroughly articulate and genial, he turned the hearings into forums on philosophy that business should be ruled by laws and not by antagonistic commissions.

Hitler of Berchtesgaden

Hitler of Berchtesgaden
By the red gods he swore,
That freedom, faith and honor
Should dwell on earth no more;
By the red gods he swore it
And named a fateful night
And bade his underlings ride forth,
Their apish eyes agleam with hate,
To conquer right with might.

Hitler of Berchtesgaden
Across the land he rode,
And liberty was shackled
Where his cohorts strode.
And so the great dispoiler
Wrough mighty deeds of wrath,
To drench the earth with blood and tears,
What time the red gods laughed.

Hitler of Berchtesgaden
Struck little nations down
And rolled his juggernaut of war
Through many a peaceful town,
But as his blackened pathway led
Through shattered walls of stone,
He came upon a gallant land
He dared not face alone.
Shame on false Mussolini
Who wrought the deed of shame!
Through all the years that are to be,
Mankind shall loathe his name.

Hitler of Berchtesgaden
Now looks across the wave;
But English hearts are staunch and true
And England's sons are brave.
And—"There'll always be an England!"
Is their embattled cry,
For hope abides though sorrow leads
And Freedom shall not die!

Rancher Who Fled Hospital To Die At Home Rearrested

William Cole 64 year old rancher, who wanted to die among the friendly hills rather than serve the remainder of a six months term in the Nevada County Jail, is back in the county hospital from which he escaped a week ago.

Sick, weak from hunger, Cole was found asleep by searchers in an improvised camp a quarter of a mile from his own ranch home.

Ill, when he fled from the hospital he made his way on foot to his home, 22 miles south of Nevada City.

"Wanted to Die"

"I wanted to die," he said. "I wanted to see the old place once again and then I wanted to die."

From his cabin he took a tarpaulin and two blankets. On a hillside, not far from his home of many years he rigged up a tent with the tarpaulin. The blankets were his only protection from the chill mountain nights.

Although his cabin was well stocked with food, Cole said the last time he had eaten anything was about 4:30 p. m. Monday, shortly before his escape.

Had Nothing To Eat

"I came home to die. I didn't want to eat." he said.

His friends said Cole had been an outdoor man all his life, and that confinement and drab jail routine might have caused the illness which resulted in hs becoming a patient of the hospital a week before he fled.

Physicians state Cole will survive, although he was emaciated from lack of food and from exposure. Cole was convicted in July of attempting to shoot Al Rodda, his nephew in law, in a quarrel over the use of a gate.

The search for Cole was led by Deputy Sheriffs Carl Larsen and Fred Williford.

CHAS. MATLOCK HELD FOR SUPERIOR COURT

Charles Matlock, who was arrested as an accomplice of William Haines in the recent Alpha Store robbery, was bound over to the superior court at his preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Geo. Gildersleeve.

Matlock is being held in the county jail here pending his arraignment in the superior court. Bail has been set at $2,000.

Witnesses testifying against Matlock at his preliminary hearing were C. R. Murchie of the Alpha Store, Sheriff Carl Tobiassen and Herbert Castleberry and A. L. Fiorine of the Reno police force. The latter three testified Matlock confessed to them as being an accomplice of Haines in the robbery.

THINKING OUT LOUD

evey patriot in this land, but it should especially make the gorge of every Jew and Catholic rise.

No, Mr. Roosevelt did not answer Mr. Willkie, frankly and honestly. He evaded the issue of the third term, the dishonor heaped upon Thomas Jefferson at the Chicago convention, the charge that he had forced Henry Wallace upon that convention as a vice presidential candidate. Mr. Roosevelt did not mention the nine million still unemployed. He never said a word about the 23 billions of dollars he has added to the public debt, which he has gaily tried in other speeches to pass off on the gullible as an "investment." He went to some length to disclaim having sold Czecho-Slovakia down the river, but did not say a word about the part he did play in the events leading up to the conference at Munich.

We ask everyone of our readers to listen to Mr. Roosevelt whenever he speaks over the radio between now and November 5. Listen and note the things he does not mention, these parts of the record he does not produce. Because those are the very things that have vital significance to democracy. He will avoid answering any accusation of Mr. Willkie that affects our liberties, our democratic way of life, and in the main content himself with assuring us in general terms that all is well.

LIGHT CONDITION with Better Sight Lamps

Be good to your eyes. At all your easy chairs where eyes work hard at sewing, reading or study, make seeing easier with softly diffused light for better sight.

Choose lamps that are designed to guard your sight. These modern Better Light for Better Sight lamps are no ordinary lamps. Standards are of proper height, shades are open top and bottom and have a white lining that diffuses fully twenty per cent more light than a dark shade. And of course the inner diffusing bowl gives the daylight softness of light that is kind to the eyes.

See that your rooms now, during winter, have happy, cheerful light that is kind to the eyes. Check on your bulbs. Replace all burned out lamps. But be sure to replace these with the right sized lamp. The best in lighting costs very little more than poor lighting. Your eyes will tell you good lighting feels good.
